

Youth Culture Specialist, Paul Robertson, Presents

UNDERSTANDING POSTMODERN YOUTH CULTURE

Finding it harder to raise good kids in a culture of chaos, adults need to take a closer look at their postmodern world of anything goes to find some solutions. The world of teens is dominated by feelings, images, longing for relationships, spirituality and a lack of truth. This seminar looks at the 10 characteristics of postmodern youth culture and how adults can respond in constructive ways.

Paul is the Youth Culture Specialist for Youth Unlimited (Toronto YFC). He has been working with youth and parents for 33 years and has spoken extensively throughout Canada and the USA. Having raised four sons, he understands that today's parents are searching for answers to urgent questions on keeping the family strong.
